DOCTORS DIFFER ON INFANT DEATH

Six Physicians of Chicago on Coroner's Jury To Give Verdict in Deformed Baby's Death.

Chicago, Nov. 19 .- Six leading surgcons impaneled as a coroner's jury to decide whether Dr. Henry J. Haiselden did right in wrong in refusing to operate on the deformed Bollinger baby. and thus save its life, are to make publie their decision today

Having carefully examined the body of the infant, the surgeons planned to cal before them Allan Bollinger, father of the child; Dr. Haiselden; Coroner's Physician Dr. H. G. W. Reinhardt, several attaches at the German-American hospital where the child was born, and all others who had anything to do with the case

Members of the jury agreed not to discuss their findings until made pub-He, but it was reported, on the best of authority that their verdict would vindieste Dr. Halselden, Coroner Peter M. Hoffman admitted as much after the second postmortem was performed.

"Dr. Reinhardt went further in his autopsy." Coroner Hoffman said, "and we found that the child was even more defective than was indicated; far more defective than Dr. Halselden said."
